

Development Without Aid

The Decline of Development Aid and the Rise of the Diaspora
David A. Phillips

Publication date: April 2013

Binding: Paperback

Price: £65 / $99

ISBN: 9780857286239

Extent: 234 pages

Size: 229 x 152mm / 9 x 6in

Illustrations: 14+ figures

Category: BUSINESS & ECONOMICS

/ Development / Economic Development

BISAC Code: BUS068000

BIC Code: KCM

Rights Held: ALL excluding
Australia

This book is also available as an ebook.

Description

Development Without Aid* provides a critique of foreign aid as unable to provide the dynamism needed to propel the world's poorest countries out of poverty and develops an alternative.

"In Development Without Aid, David Phillips has written a timely book that challenges many accepted ideas about foreign aid. This compelling text will provoke an interesting and necessary debate." —Moisés Naim, Carnegie Endowment, and author of "The End of Power"

"The merit of this volume is in bringing together detailed information on aid and its impact with a full insider's understanding of the bureaucracy of aid and how it can distort weak economies." —John Weiss, Professor of Development Studies, University of Bradford

"David Phillips has written a sustained and reasoned condemnation of the aid process as practiced for the last half century. Anyone defending the aid industry will need to confront this important book." —Kenneth Reinert, Professor of Public Policy, George Mason University

'An excellent book – one that I hope starstruck journos at the FT and Economist [...], who have given the [World] Bank a free pass over the years, will read.' —Andrew Hilton, Financial World

Development Without Aid provides a critique of foreign aid as a resource that is unable to provide the dynamism to propel the poorest countries out of poverty. It examines the rapid growth of the world's diasporas as an alternative dynamic with potential to supersede foreign aid and drive a reassertion of sovereignty by poor states, especially in Africa, over their own development.

Readership: The book will have principally an educated "public affairs" readership in the foreign aid, development, and foreign policy areas. Secondly it will have an academic readership in the economic/political/social development area where it could be a set reference on courses of study of foreign aid.

Contents

List of Acronyms; Acknowledgments; 1. Introduction: Motivation and Perspective; 2. What Is Foreign Aid, Who Does It, Why and How Much Is There?; 3. How Far Has Development Aid Been Effective?; 4. Why Has Development Aid Done So Little?; 5. Changing the Dynamics of Development; 6. "New Aid": New Ways to Promote and Finance Development?; 7. Another Pathway Out of Poverty?; 8. Exit Strategy – Replacing Foreign Assistance; 9. Postscript; Notes; Index

About the Author

David A. Phillips is a writer and economic consultant. He was educated in Britain and has a PhD in economic development.

Ordering in the UK/Rest of the World

Marston Book Services
P.O. Box 269
Abingdon, Oxfordshire
OX14 4YN, United Kingdom
Tel: +44 (0)1235 465577
Fax: +44 (0)1235 465556
direct.orders@marston.co.uk
trade.orders@marston.co.uk

Ordering in North America

Books International
P.O. Box 605
Herndon, VA 20172-0605
United States
Tel: +1 703 661 1570
Fax: +1 703 661 1501
bimail@presswarehouse.com