A unique, multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary contribution that critically examines histories of esotericism, mysticism and occultism in modern Asia, paving eventually the way for the so-called 'New Age'

In this seminal edited collection, scholars from different fields critically examine histories of esotericism, mysticism and occultism in modern Asia, understood here as the period roughly stretching from the late nineteenth through the twentieth century, paving eventually the way for the so-called 'New Age'.

Key selling points

- Provides a rich and representative collection of case studies that document key aspects of socio-religious processes in large parts of modern Asia
- Provides a compelling account of relatively understudied areas of mystical, esoteric and occult thought and practice against the backdrop of broader historical context
- Accounts for the cutting edge of the anthology through the multidisciplinary nature of contributions in one single volume
- Provides a perfect balance between fresh conceptual and/or theoretical reflections and empirical analyses
