This book unveils the challenges of living beyond Covid-19 navigating trauma, solidarity, and transformative futures.

Covid-19 has created trauma, death and destruction as well as challenged us for transformation of our existing society, economy and polity. The book engages with the challenges of transformations as a consequence of this. It brings reflections from several disciplines and thought practitioners from around the world. It explores challenges of transformations in economics, politics, self, science and society for living meaningfully in a post-pandemic world. It also explores pathways of creative planetary futures that we need to cultivate with and beyond Covid-19.

Readership

The book is of interest to scholars and students in social sciences, humanities, development studies, religious studies and public health.

Key selling points

- The book is one of the few reflecting upon the challenge of COVID-19 and trauma and transformations
- It explores ethical, political and spiritual dimensions of COVID-19.
- It is trans-disciplinary and brings reflections and practices from different religious, philosophical and spiritual traditions and experiments of our world.
