Examines the educational struggle of Pukhtun women in traditionalist Pukhtun society, highlighting how higher education serves as a path to liberation within a patriarchal culture, where cultural dominance often overrides original Islamic teachings, leading to gender marginalisation exploited by forces like the Taliban.

This book describes the Pukhtun women's educational struggle in the traditionalist Pukhtun society to succeed against the odds. The sample women call for Pukhtun feminism for their emancipation and empowerment in Pukhtunkhwa, Pakistan.

Readership

The primary aim of the book is to be read by undergraduate and postgraduate students and researchers. This research monograph will sell to academic libraries because the subject area of gender and feminism is widely taught and researched around the world.

Key selling points

An academic feminist study of the Pukhtun area of Pakistan

Women own voices: An unique triangulation of gender, Islam and education

Synthesising feminists' theories in a non-Western setting
